RespectUs' team recently completed with 2 Developers

With the recent arrival of two experienced Developers, the team is now complete and ready to create the next generation platform for Export Control Compliance!

Quincy Kwende is part of the team since 15 November 2021. With a Bachelor degree in Physics and Computer Science and a Masters degree in Information Technology, he brings his 11 years of experience as a Full-Stack Developer to the startup. Initially a Backend Developer, he added Frontend development to his profile within the last few years. Quincy is very much interested in learning and using new technologies. He is a great thinker and has a thing for electronics and machine learning. Loves to spend time with family (wife and daughter), travelling and visiting places. He speaks English and French.

Our second Developer joined RespectUs at the same time. He studied computer science. He holds an 8 years experience as software developer in Luxembourg and abroad, and specialized in Frontend projects.

Together, they will transform the conceptual and detailed vision of the Business Analysts into a concrete platform dedicated to exporters of sensitive goods. It's a big challenge and a great chance to create the Software as a Service (SaaS) from scratch. Welcome to both of them!
